"OVER THERE: Comedy Is His Best Weapon" illustrates the hardship and hilarity of PJ Walsh's journey. As a screw-up kid from Brewster, NY,

Walsh enlists never expecting to go to war. After three wars, a stint as President Bill Clinton's dental technician, and a career in stand-up comedy, including touring with the stars of Blue Collar Comedy & multiple trips with the "Comics On Duty" program entertaining in war zones, PJ Walsh discovers what matters in life as he faces mortality in the belly of a C-130 plane over Afghanistan."

Patrick Carlin, older brother to a national treasure, has held his ground, his integrity, his attitude, his writing, his witty observations, and his belief you must be who you are and love yourself. Author of the novel Highway 23: The Unrepentant, Patrick Carlin worked in television first as a researcher, then writing episodes for The George Carlin Show, with screenplays, TV pilots, and a library of short stories ready to be discovered. Patrick can be heard regularly on Wednesdays with Greg Gattine in the Morning and Sundays at 8:55 am wrapping up the Doug Grunther Show on Radio Woodstock, WDST 100.1 FM. Patrick also has a weekly subscription television show "Carlin's Corner" on Trends Research Institute's "The Trends Journal." Here's Patrick Carlin on YouTube.
